ALMA MATER

*'Neath the shadow of the Rimrocks
Stands a college firm and true,
Whose green and golden banners
Hail Montana's skies of blue.*

CHORUS:

*Rocky Mountain, we all love thee,
Alma Mater of the West,
We raise our cry to glorify
The college we love best.*

*Thy traditions we all honor.
Thy fair campus we adore,
In thine ivied walls we've tarried
College of the open door.*

The highlight of the year for the women was the opportunity to compete in the First Women's Nationals held in Waterloo, Iowa. Each of the women attending the meet placed within the top three places and their combined performances enabled them to take top team honors.

The RMC Weightlifting Club under the direction of Mr. W. H. Jamison has been fortunate enough to attend competitions not only in Montana but Canada as well.

This year's outstanding lifters were Suzie Sessions and team captain Dean Ratty.

Senior Bill Bowers was selected as a national finalist in the U/RTA, an association of regional theatres, professional actor training programs, and graduate schools. In order to be considered, actors must first be nominated, then must submit a series of applications, transcripts, and recommendations. Preliminary auditions are scheduled in which a small percentage of actors advance to the national level. Bill performed in Long Beach, California for representatives of Harvard School of Drama, Wayne State University, UCLA, and several professional theatres.

Special discussion in World Problem Solvers led by the Japanese students

TUESDAY: Participation of internationals in chapel services

WEDNESDAY: "Living in Different Cultures"

THURSDAY: International Talent Show

FRIDAY: International Dinner

INTERNATIONAL AWARENESS WEEK was filled with opportunities to learn about foods, talents, customs, and clothing styles of Rocky's internationals. The concluding event consisted of an International Dinner in which these students and several faculty members prepared their native dishes such as eggplant and chicken (Guyanese), Gyoza (Japanese), Baklava and a variety of salads and breads.

Campus Ministry seeks to facilitate the creation of a campus atmosphere in which spiritual searching, growth, and development are encouraged and recognized as a vital aspect of a person's total development. Weekly chapel services, organized ministry groups, special emphasis and programming, and counseling services provided by the chaplain are some of the objective ways in which this atmosphere is created. Campus Ministry encourages each individual in his or her own fashion, to participate in the processes of faith-building, faith-sharing, and faith-response.

CAMPUS MINISTRIES RETREAT

In September, Campus Ministries sponsored a weekend retreat at the Lion's Camp near Red Lodge. The time spent in the beautiful mountain setting was used to form friendships, study God's word, and generally have fun and fellowship. The theme of the retreat, "Faith and Works," and the Star-thrower's (a Christian service group) motto, "Find a Need and Fill It," were put to work. The campers brainstormed about different problems and needs of the Rocky community, then thought of concrete ways to help solve some of these problems.

BLOOD

The Gift

Mr. O'Leary studies the situation.

A cartoon illustration of a rooster standing on its hind legs, looking worried. The text "Chicken about giving blood?" is written above it. In the bottom right corner, there is a logo for "UNITED BLOOD SERVICES" with a heart symbol. A large banner across the middle of the poster reads "...what happens if you need it?". Below the banner, smaller text provides details for the blood drive: "BLOODMOBILE", "DATE MARCH 4, 1981", "TIME 9:00 - 4:00", and "PLACE FIRESTONE LOUNGE (- U.B.)". At the bottom, it says "Contact for appointment".

Traumatic for some ...
Exciting for others!!

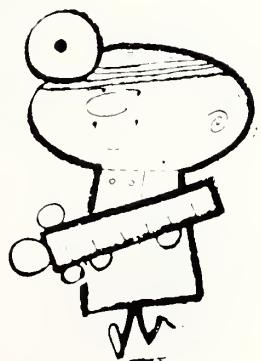

PUMP THAT BLOOD!!

Of Life

Awaiting patiently.

Dear Mom and Dad,

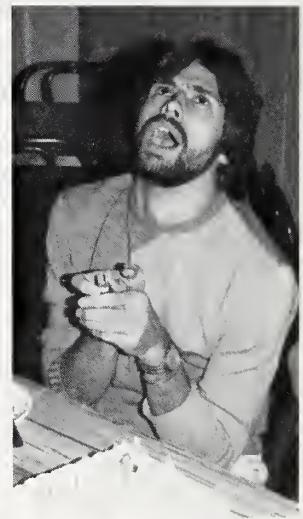

College life has been just SUPER!! There are so many things to get involved in here that it would take years to cover it all. This place has band (jazz, concert, marching and pep), choir, drama, men's and women's basketball, weight-lifting, track and football. The women even get into football and I don't mean cheerleading! Every year, the upper classwomen challenge the Freshmen to a game of football. Let me tell you those Powderpuffs mean business! The upper classwomen remain undefeated. I always thought the officials were giving the players pattern directions but I think I'm finally beginning to understand the game.

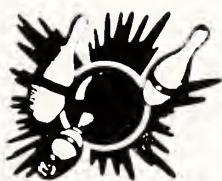

There just isn't enough time to be homesick. We've had Toga parties, Casino Nights, dances (wild times), talent shows, special attractions, gone roller skating, and even bowling. Oh Dad, I finally learned how to score in bowling. No wonder you always win.

Have gotten involved in ASRMC. These early morning meetings are beginning to get the best of me. Can't understand why anyone would want to get up so early anyway. My brain usually doesn't wake up until at least 11:13 a.m.

The college rooms are rather tiny, but phone service is available so I guess I really can't complain. Have been meeting a lot of people and it's surprising that we all have so much in common. You should see some of the cars these students drive! I thought my car was an old clunker!!

Can you believe that people my age still have birthday parties and even make wishes?! In reality the wish is usually, "Please let me pass my next Calculus exam!!?!" And Santa still comes to visit!! Yes, holidays are even special here. Thanksgiving, Yule Log Dinner, and interestingly enough, even an annual presentation from the 16th or 17th Century (I think) called the Madrigal Dinner. Those events are nice once a year, but Sunday (ice cream) night is always welcomed. Those of us watching our figures usually save up during the week so we can pig out on ice cream.

Would you believe we even have "dorm Mothers and Fathers?" I tell you, some of those Head Residents and their Resident Assistants are WACKO!! If you ever decide to come visit, please let me know ahead of time so I can calm them down!

Some of the students around here take things too seriously. I overheard some gal tell a couple of guys to go fly a kite. Later that afternoon, I saw the same guys out in the Bowl doing none other than ... flying a kite.

A group of my friends and I have formed a social justice department. We are known as TKC (short for The Keystone Cops.) We book and frisk those who desire it.

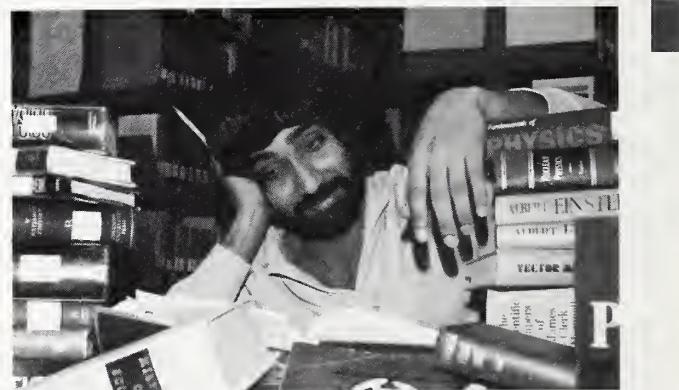

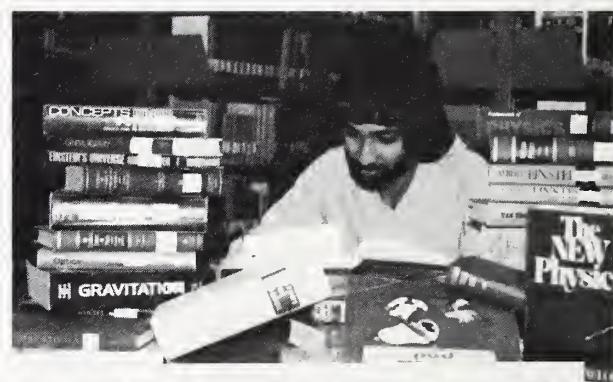

The area has some interesting history. It is presumed that many of the old woodcarvings are from the early Indian days. And were you aware that the college was built from the surrounding rimrocks? One of the older buildings on campus has been torn down in order to make room for a new science center. From what I understand, the old stones are to be included in the new building plan. I guess the rocks are the fate of the students. I've heard several threaten to jump from the rims if they flunk their next exam. Don't worry about me though. The thought hasn't crossed my mind. I'm not through learning yet.

I suppose you're wondering if we get any studying done. Have no fear! There is a time and place for everything and it's usually the week before and during finals. I practically have to make an appointment for a place to sit in the library. Of course, during the regular weeks the idea is not to get caught in the library. People either think you're an Einstein or some kind of weirdo. Just don't get caught by the sneaky photographers here on campus. They will shoot just about anything.

Remember that little talk we had when I was in junior high? Well college has taught me a lot more about drugs.

Can you believe that the professors are even human? And did you know hunting and fishing are directly related to Economics and Business? You would not believe some of those war stories! While I'm on the subject of business, I recently received a registered letter from the IRS. I gather they didn't consider my short cuts from Tax Theory quite unique and competent.

My art classes have given me the chance to expel my devilish creativity. (Personally, I am not sure I would care to drink out of my own ceramic creations.)

Human anatomy has become one of my best subjects. Why didn't they teach it this way in high school?!

Seems like my Chemistry partner and I spend all of our free time in the lab. Last month, we compared notes with a few other people in our class, and repeated our lab three times before we realized that we were doing different experiments.

Been working on seeing things in a different light or as my Christian Thought professor says, "from a different standpoint." Did you know that you can never see your standpoint because you are covering it with your feet?

Remember the pantomimes you helped me with when I was a seventh grader? Well, I tried the little girl walking hand-in-hand to the candy store with her grandpa. Much to my dismay, the class thought I was walking an elephant by the trunk! How Humiliating?!? I figured I would eventually become a writer; however, in a technical writing assignment, we were supposed to give directions on either folding a shirt or brushing one's teeth. I chose to describe brushing one's teeth. I mean, how hard could this task be? I'm sure everyone in the class recognized the fact that the professor was reading my paper when I turned twelve (yes count them, 12) shades of red as he put the toothbrush and paste in his ear. If anything could stunt my growth, that would!!

Student teaching has been a real unique time. Tell me, were we as bad as the kids today??!

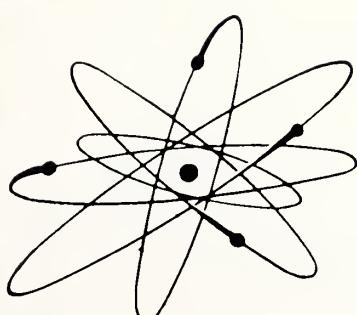

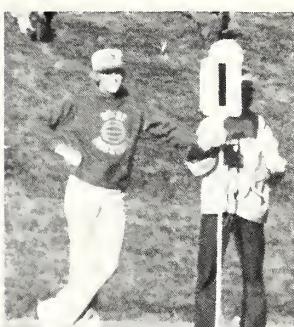

Are you aware that the Earth has its faults? It has something to do with fission. (Or was it fissure?)

Hasn't reached the papers yet, but bussing has become a mathematical problem. Apparently segregation is on the out, because integration appears to be in!

After taking "Listening to Music" three times I feel I have finally learned to enjoy Baroque Music. Not sure the professor appreciates my spelling it "broke music" though.

The physical education classes offered coed football. We all opted for touch instead of tag or tackle. The instructor wasn't sure if it would fit under the designated "aggressive sports" heading or fondling.

My karate class gives me a chance to work off my frustrations. During testing, the board didn't break, but now with my cast, I have no problems going right through it.

Every so often my Spanish teacher sneaks up on me and asks me a question in Spanish. I sure hope a Mexican bandito doesn't catch me by surprise because the first words that usually come to mind are "Donde es el cuarto de bano?"

Maybe you can explain this to me. My Psychology prof says, "things are" yet the Philosophy professor states "things aren't." How can something so simple be so confusing?!?

Those old jeans you've been wanting to use for rags have seen their last day. Got caught on a rock while trying to climb through a crawl space on one of our spelunking expeditions. Talk about getting close to the earth ... We were right in it!

I've signed up for a field trip to the Oregon Coast. I understand that the Physical Plant will be needing some extra help moving equipment into the new science center. Hope to fund my trip with the earnings.

My old teachers were right. College prepares you for a lot! The opportunities here are endless. The college's Career Planning and Placement department helps students connect with jobs of their interests and New Horizons organizes continuing education classes for people in the community.

Guess I'd better get ready for Commencement Services. Well folks, that should take care of what's been happening the past four years. Oh! And Mom and Dad, thanks for all your help and support.

Respectfully yours,

The graduate

P.S.—Don't worry Mom, I won't burn any of my bridges.

GREETINGS!!

When I first stumbled into this office I had a vague idea of why I wanted it, when, where and what direction it should take, and how I was going to go about it. Although I have worked on yearbook staffs in high school, I have never been involved in its production from concept to conclusion. One question that crosses my mind and which I have seriously deliberated is, "Would I do it again?" Since I thrive on challenges, the answer would have to be a firm "YES." I must admit I would make some drastic changes, do a lot of things differently. For me, the first step is always a trying period, a time to familiarize myself with a given situation. Even though I have been described as a person with "too many irons in the fire", one of the changes I would make is taking the task of yearbook editor as a full-time job. My involvement with this book has been a positive experience, but a rather negative one for the Rocky students and faculty as well as the various yearbook companies who have been connected with THE YELLOWSTONE the past few years. To these people I send my humble apologies. I had set goals which I had hoped would change the attitudes toward campus publications; however, due to numerous variables, many of these goals did not materialize.

The information within these covers has come from the FALL '80 STUDENT DIRECTOR, FACULTY ROSTER, NOON NEEDLES, event programs, and clippings I saved for future reference. I'm sorry if any information has been mistated. While each situation has itsown obstacles to overcome, mine was definitely not "LACK OF PHOTOS." Instead, the difficulty I faced was deciding which ones to put in!! (or rather leave out.) For this, sincere thanks to Don Adams, Craig Larsen, and Paul Nugent for their work behind the cameras and in the darkroom. In addition, I extend my utmost gratitude to Terri Murphy for her superb talents in designing the cover and most of the artwork; Beth Gunderson for taking the time to do additional research; my appreciation to Candy Norman, Renae Overstreet, Doretta Kilwein, Susan McCarthy, Joanie Small, Patti Foltz, Trent Beaver, Steve Longbottom, Steve Lambert, Doug Simmons, and Kathy Greene for their interest; ASRMC for allowing me control of the reins to "do my thing", and naturally the students and faculty of RMC for their support.

What was once future is now history. I hope I have been able to collect at least a little bit of that history. Those involved in the '80-81 ROCKY EXPERIENCE shall be my critics. I suggest each individual receiving a copy of this yearbook add a bit of their own personal history by writing short notes on its pages which will send signals to crack the mind's "special moments file" when the book is opened 37 years from now. At any rate, here it is at last, THE YELLOWSTONE 1981, my final contribution to Rocky Mountain College, College of the Open Door.

BEST OF EACH DAY!!

Elvira Skurdal, Editor

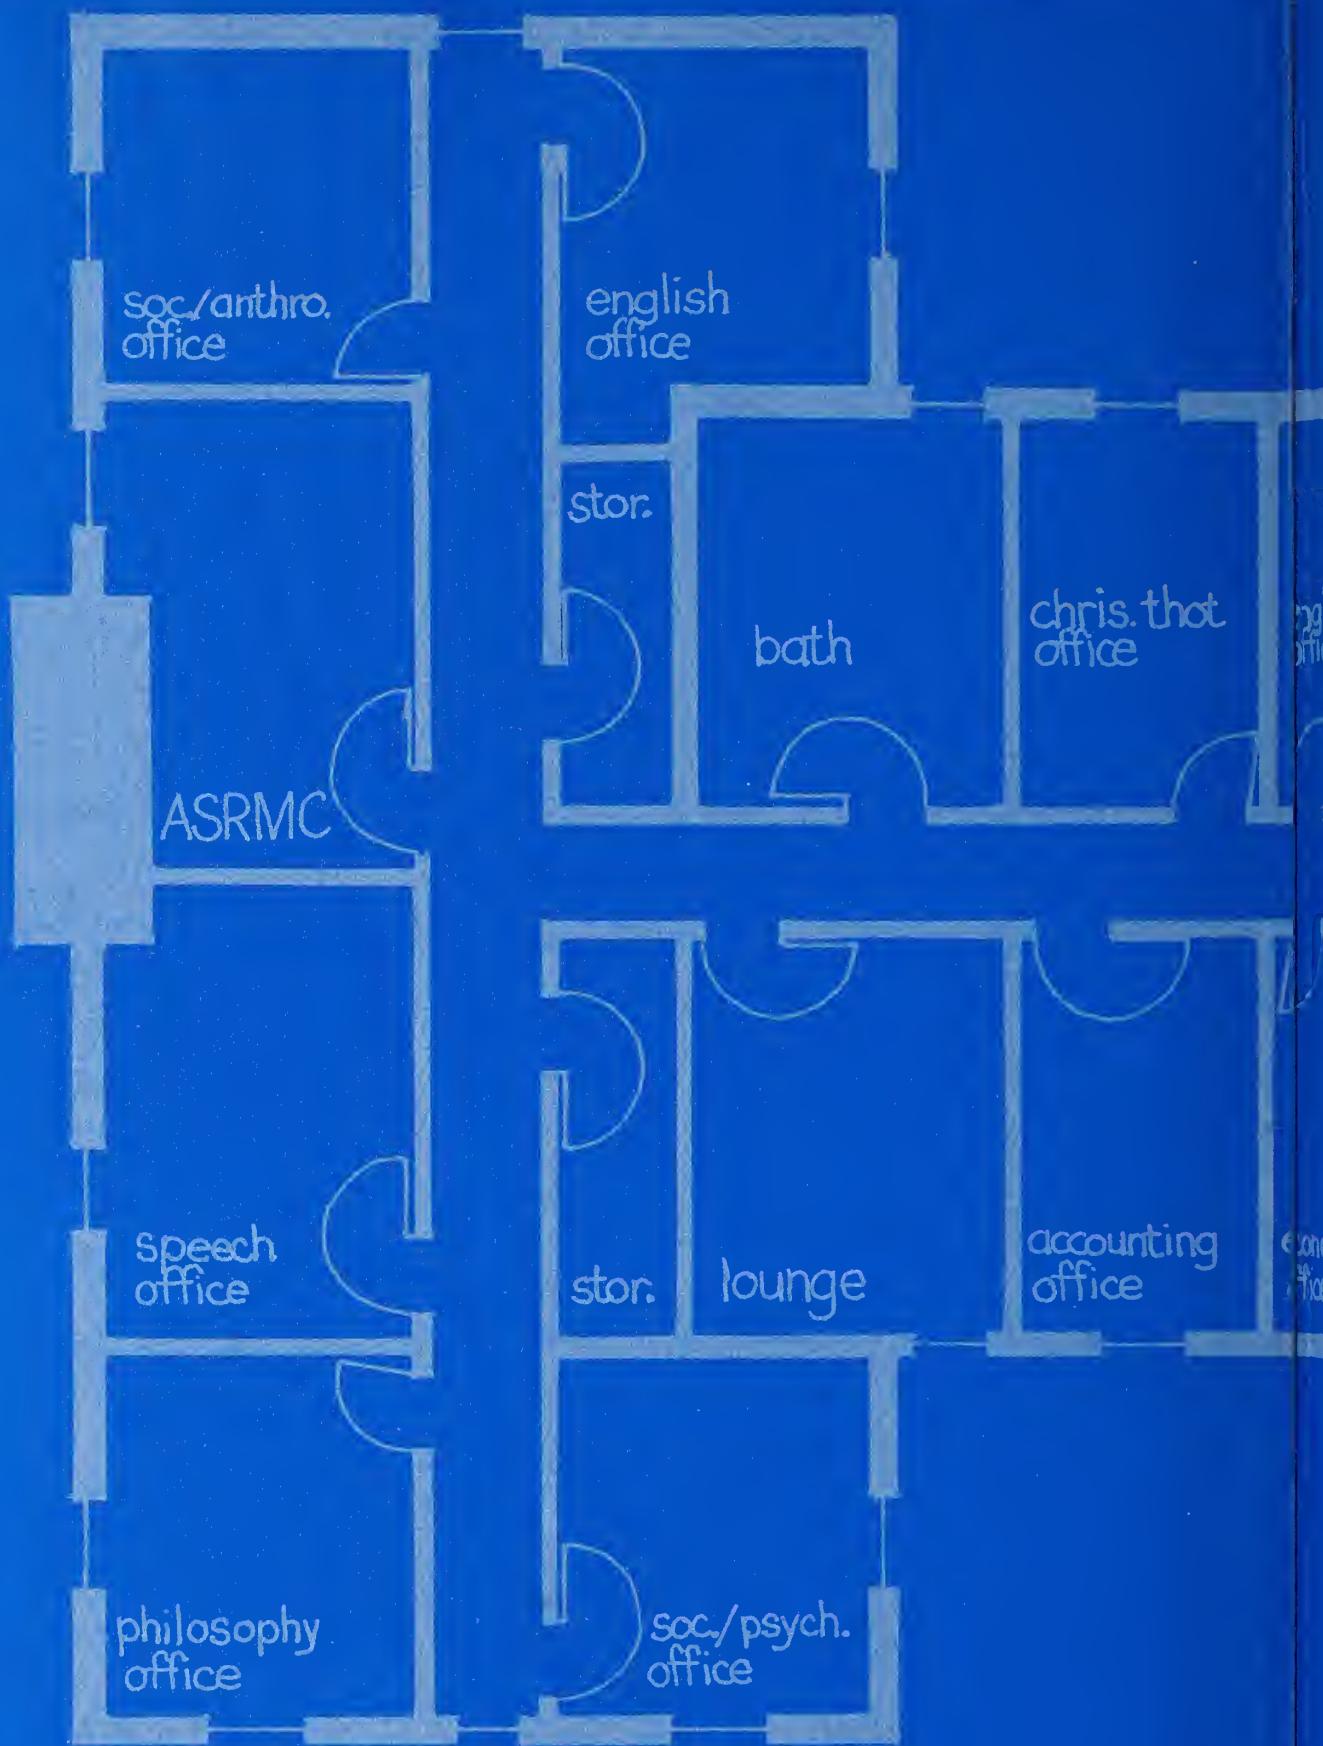

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Elvira Skurdal". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a small double引号 mark above the 'i' in "Elvira".

P.S.—It has been stated that "Fine wine and cheese improve with age." I wonder if this is true of Yearbooks!?

P.S.S.—There is life after editting a yearbook!!
